

John Glover RBA (18 February 1767 – 9 December 1849) was an English-born artist. In later life he migrated to Van Diemen's Land and became a pastoralist during the early colonial period. He has been dubbed "the father of Australian landscape painting."

Glover was born at Houghton-on-the-Hill in Leicestershire, England. He moved to London in 1805, became a member of the Old Water Colour Society, and was elected its president in 1807. In the ensuing years he exhibited a large number of pictures at the exhibitions of this society, and also at the Royal Academy and the Society of British Artists. had one-man shows in London in 1823 and 1824. He was a very successful artist and, although never elected a member of the Academy, his reputation stood very high with the public

The John Glover Art Prize (Glover Prize) has become one of Australia's most significant awards for landscape painting, open to artists from anywhere in the world.

It is awarded annually by The John Glover Society Inc. for the work judged the best contemporary landscape painting of Tasmania.

Landscape painting is defined in its broadest sense. The aim is to stimulate conversations about the meaning and possibilities expressed in the words landscape, painting and Tasmania.

The winner receives $80,000 plus a bronze maquette of colonial artist John Glover, designed by Peter Corlett and valued at $5000

Coravin Selections—Premium Wines by the Glass

Inspired by medical technology and created by wine collector Greg Lambrecht, Coravin changed the way the world drinks fine wine. By allowing a bottle to be accessed without ever removing the cork, the wine remains protected, preserving it exactly as the winemaker intended.

Through this technology, we are able to offer a selection of rare, mature, and cellar-worthy wines by the glass, including bottles that would otherwise seldom be experienced outside of a full pour.

For guests, it is an invitation to explore extraordinary wines. For us, it is a chance to share a little more of the cellar, one glass at a time.

Hands Behind the Bottle

Natalie Fryar — Bellebonne, Pipers River

Natalie Fryar has spent most of her career in pursuit of precision.

After beginning in Tasmania, she travelled widely through Europe, working harvests and deepening her understanding of cool-climate winemaking before returning home to focus on sparkling wine. Over the years, she has become one of the quiet forces behind Tasmania's reputation for elegance and restraint in this style.

In 2015, she established Bellebonne in Pipers River — a personal project shaped by patience, site, and a desire to work more intimately with the land.

Pipers River is cool, exposed, and exacting, where small decisions matter and time does most of the work. Her wines follow that same line — measured, detailed, and never hurried.

In her words:

“Sparkling wine is about restraint — knowing what to leave out as much as what to put in.”

That idea sits at the heart of Bellebonne.

Wines that unfold slowly, built on structure, clarity, and a deep sense of place.

Hands Behind the Bottle

Brian Franklin — Apsley Gorge, East Coast Tasmania

Brian Franklin didn't come to wine through tradition — he came to it through curiosity.

After years working in science and industry, he turned his focus to the East Coast of Tasmania, planting Apsley Gorge in the late 1990s with a clear idea of what the site could do. It wasn't the obvious choice at the time — warmer, drier, and a little removed from the more established regions — but that was part of the appeal.

From the beginning, his approach has been exacting. Small yields, close attention, and a willingness to let the vineyard speak without interference.

Apsley Gorge wines carry that signature. Riper in fruit, structured, and quietly powerful, but always held together by balance and detail. They feel shaped as much by restraint as they are by intent.

Franklin has often spoken about the importance of understanding the land over time — not forcing it, but working with it, season by season.

Hands Behind the Bottle

Olivier Leflaive — Burgundy

In Burgundy, names carry weight — and Leflaive is one of them.

Olivier Leflaive grew up surrounded by some of the most revered vineyards in the world, part of a family deeply rooted in Puligny-Montrachet. But his path wasn't only inherited — it was built through decades of understanding the nuance of site, vintage, and restraint that defines great Burgundy.

In 1984, he established Maison Olivier Leflaive, stepping beyond the family domaine to work more broadly across the region, sourcing fruit and building relationships with growers he trusted. It allowed him to explore Burgundy in full — from village wines through to premier cru sites — always with a focus on clarity and balance.

There's a quiet consistency to these wines.
Nothing overstated, nothing out of place.

Chardonnay here is about line and texture — citrus, stone fruit, and a fine mineral edge, shaped gently by oak rather than defined by it. The reds follow the same philosophy: structure without weight, perfume without excess.

Hands Behind the Bottle

Pablo Calatayud — Celler del Roure, Valencia

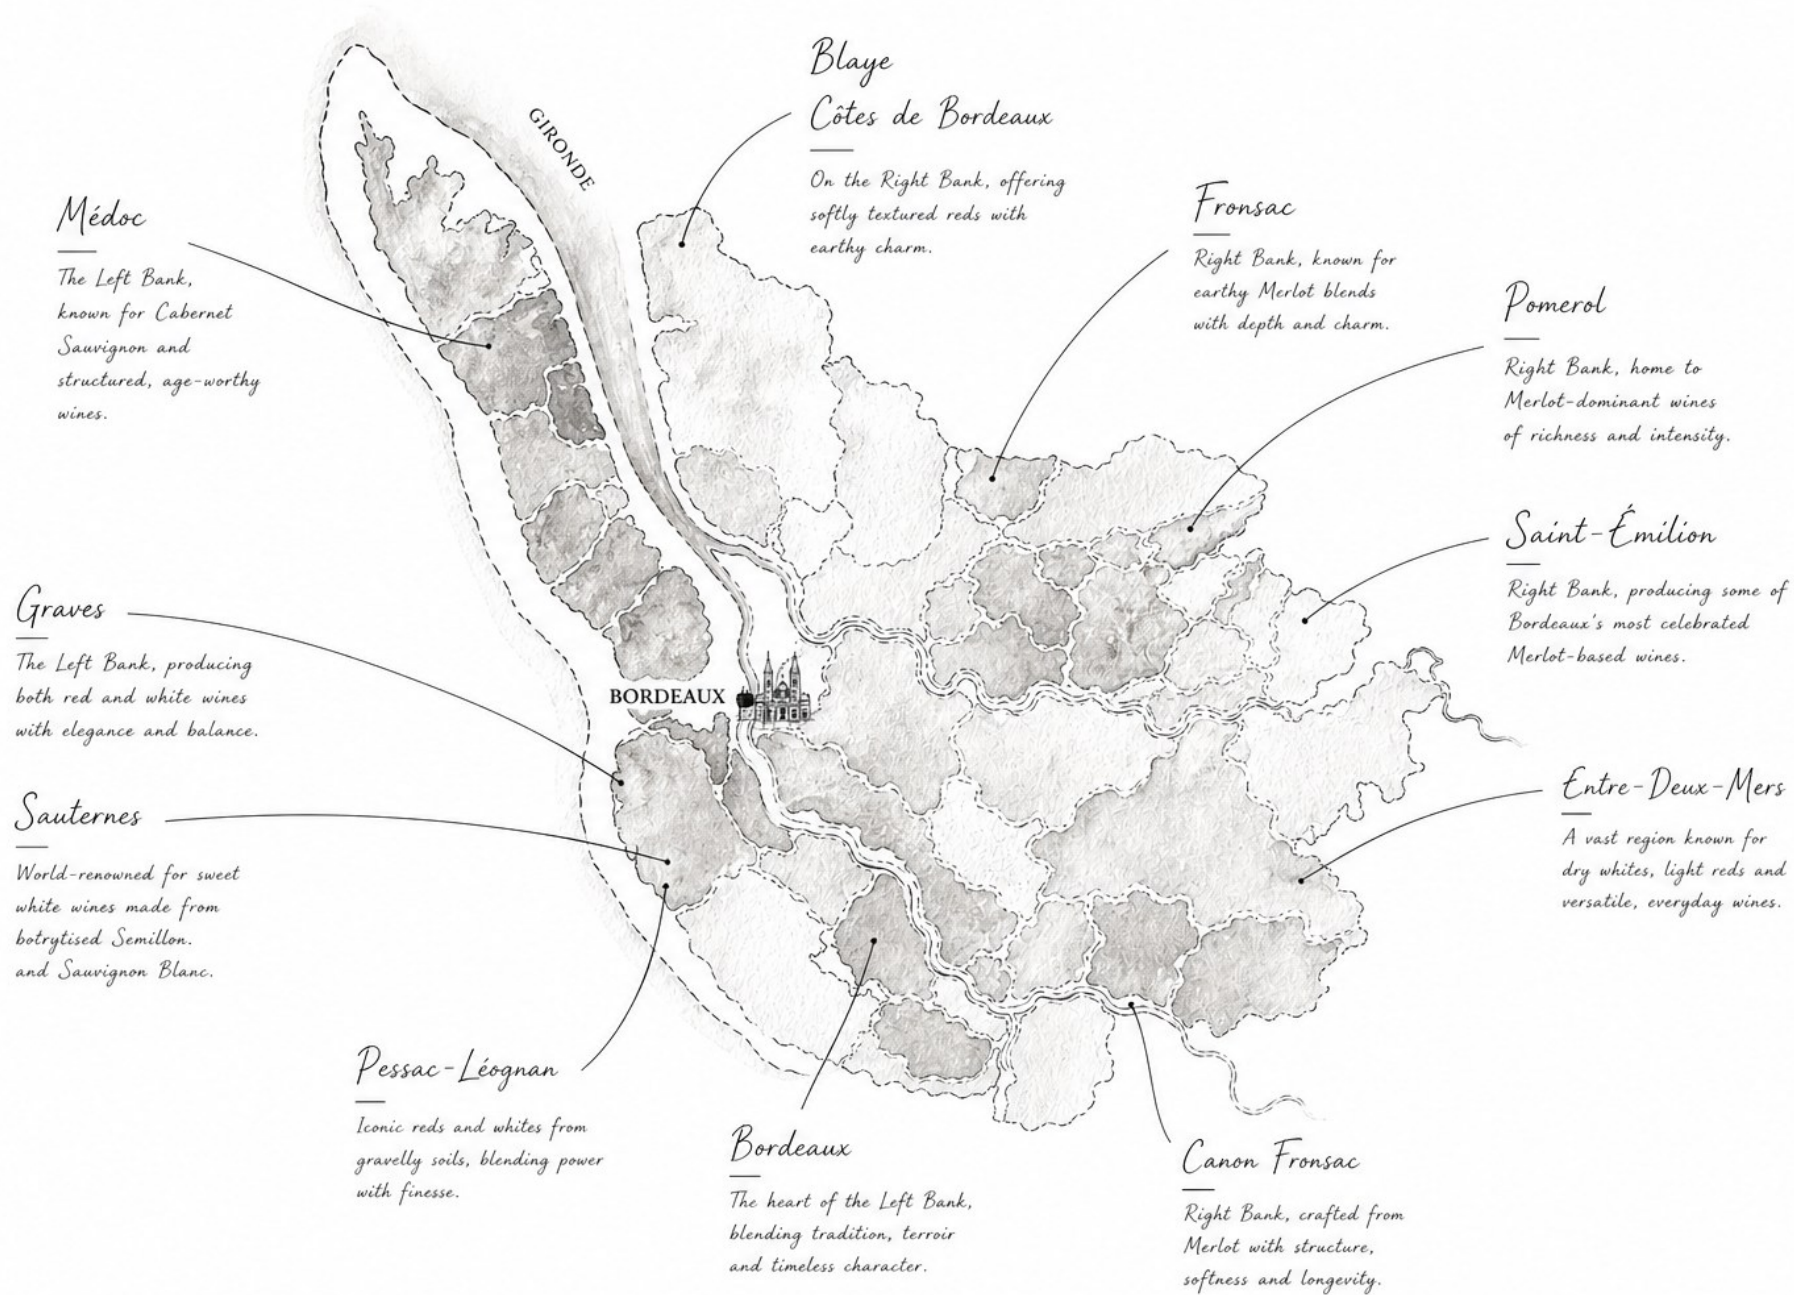

Pablo Calatayud didn't come from a winemaking family. When he founded Celler del Roure in 1996, his focus was simply to grow vines in his hometown of Moixent, in the hills of Valencia.

The defining moment came a decade later when he discovered a forgotten underground cellar containing dozens of centuries-old clay amphorae buried beneath the estate. At the same time, he became determined to rescue Mandó, a nearly extinct local grape variety he found surviving in small pockets of the region.

Together, these discoveries changed everything.

Today, Celler del Roure is celebrated for reviving both ancient winemaking methods and Valencia's indigenous grapes, proving that some of the most exciting wines are found by looking back rather than forward.

Hands Behind the Bottle

Amelia Nolan — Alkina, Barossa Valley

Amelia Nolan's path into wine wasn't inherited — it was built slowly, with intention.

After studying viticulture and working across Australia and overseas, she found her way to the Barossa with a clear interest in farming first, winemaking second. At Alkina, that philosophy becomes the foundation — a focus on soil, site, and the idea that great wine begins long before it reaches the winery.

Since joining Alkina in 2018, she has worked closely with the vineyard to understand its complexity, mapping soils and breaking the land into small, distinct parcels. Each one farmed and handled on its own terms.

The result is a very different expression of the Barossa. Grenache, in particular, shows a quieter side — less about weight, more about shape, texture, and detail.

It's Barossa, but seen through a finer lens.
